NEW CABINET REPORTED FOR COLOMBIAN REVOLUTION

Report of Disturbed Conditions at Santa Marta—State Department Orders Investigation.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The Colombian revolution has broken out in a new place, according to information received at the navy department today. An American fruit company transmitted to Secretary Moody a cablegram from its agent at Santa Marta, a place on the north coast of Colombia near the mouth of the Magdalena river, saying that conditions there were very much disturbed, that the telegraph and railroad communication had been interrupted and requesting the department's attention.

The dispatch was sent at once to the state department and our consul at Baranquilla, a place near Santa Marta, was called on for an immediate report concerning the situation. This report is expected tomorrow and until it is received no action looking to the dispatch of a warship will be taken by the navy department.

In case the conditions of affairs at Santa Maria should demand the presence of a vessel, the navy department has decided to send the gunboat Marietta, now at La Guayra, but the condition of affairs at the latter point is such that if the Marietta is obliged to leave, the Montgomery at Cape Haytien, will be ordered forthwith to La Guayra and the latter's place on the Haytien coast will be taken temporarily by the San Francisco, which will sail from Norfolk tomorrow.

Rear Admiral Coghlan, who will have all the warships in West Indian waters under his immediate control, is expected to sail on his flagship, the Olympia, from Boston within two weeks. On his arrival at Cape Haytien the San Francisco will return to Norfolk for general repairs. Six hundred marines have been mobilized at Norfolk, to be sent to the isthmus aboard the Prairie now at Boston. The Prairie is ready to sail when she may receive notification.

The mobilization of these marines is in the nature of a precaution and unless they are needed it is not the intention of the navy department to embark for the south. Admiral Coghlan had a talk with Secretary Moody and Rear Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, today, concerning his duties in the West Indies. While no formal orders have been issued, the dispatch of a flag officer to the Caribbean practically amounts to the creation of a fleet division in those waters.

It is understood to be the intention of the department formally to create a West Indian division of the North Atlantic squadron when the winter maneuvers in the Caribbean end.

MONTANA DEMOCRATS CONTROLLED BY CLARK

By Associated Press.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 23.—The Democratic convention which met at Boreman today had but two nominations to make, one for associate justice of the supreme court and one for congressman. Interest in the convention centered around the action of the state central committee which met this morning. There were two contesting delegations, one from Silver Bow county and one from Granite. One Silver Bow delegation was headed by United States Senator Clark and the other by F. Augustus Heinz. The state committee by a vote of 210 to 4 decided to seat the Clark delegations. The committee also decided that the convention would meet at 5 o'clock with Senator Clark as temporary chairman. Under the decision of the committee the Clark people controlled the convention.

The convention did not meet until 8 o'clock this evening. Senator Clark acted as temporary chairman and after he had made an address, committees were appointed and the convention took a recess until morning. There is a fight in the committee on credentials on the seating of two of the delegates from Silver Bow.

MITCHELL DECLINED TO EXPRESS HIS OPINION

By Associated Press.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 23.—President Mitchell declined to make any comment today on the action of Sheriff Schadt of Lackawanna county in calling on Governor Stone for troops. It is known, however, that he is displeased with the strikers for pursuing a course which prompted the sheriff to make the appeal to the governor. Only a week ago President Mitchell counseled all his followers to keep the peace. Some of his advisers say the calling of the militia to do duty in the Lackawanna region will have no effect on the strike.

National Board Member Fallon thinks stationing soldiers in Lackawanna county may be the means of suppressing marches, picketing and other demonstrations, but it will not give the operators any other advantage. On the other hand, the operators feel confident that the continued outbreaks of violence mean growing discontent among the strikers and that under the protection of the military arm of the state the men will gradually return to work.

By Associated Press.

Shenango, Pa., Sept. 23.—General Gobin left here today for Scranton. Before going the general said the troops in the field probably would be changed about, but just what disposition would be made of them he will not know until he looks into the situation in Lackawanna county. It is likely, however, that the Eighth regiment will be taken away from here and succeeded either by the Thirteenth or the Fourteenth.

ASKS FOR TROOPS

By Associated Press.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—A telegram was received in Harrisburg early this morning from Sheriff Jacobs of Luzerne county, asking Governor Stone for troops. In his telegram to the governor the sheriff says he is unable to cope with the situation. No action was taken on the request tonight and it is likely the governor will investigate the conditions as they exist in the vicinity of Wilkesbarre before sending troops.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S CONDITION

Blood Poisoning Feared by Physicians.

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—At 7:45 this evening the president, accompanied by members of his party and escorted by a company of infantry was carried on a stretcher from St. Vincent's hospital to his car and the train left a few minutes later for Washington.

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—The following official statement was issued:

At 3:15 p. m. the president went from the Columbia club to St. Vincent's hospital in his own carriage and shortly after he was in the hospital. The operation required was performed by Dr. George H. Oliver of Indianapolis, in consultation with the president's physician, Dr. George A. Lung, and Dr. George J. Cook, Dr. Henry Jameson and Dr. J. J. Richardson.

At the conclusion of the operation the physicians authorized the following statement:

"As a result of traumatism (bruise) received in the trolley accident at Pittsfield, Mass., there was found to be a circumscribed collection of perfectly pure serum in the middle third of the left anterior tibial region, the sac containing about two ounces, which was removed.

"The indications are that the president should make speedy recovery. It is absolutely imperative, however, that he should remain quiet and refrain from using the leg. The trouble is not serious but temporarily disabling."

George B. Cortelyou, Secretary to the President.

By Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—President Roosevelt's western trip came to an untimely end in this city today. He was found to be suffering with a swelling of the left leg between the knee and ankle that required immediate surgical attention and instead of being taken to the train to continue his journey to Fort Wayne and Milwaukee, he was conveyed to St. Vincent's hospital, where he was operated on. The operation occurred at 3:45 o'clock and lasted only a short time, when he was taken to a private room in the hospital to rest.

After taking a light luncheon at 7:05 p. m., he was conveyed on a stretcher to his train, which had been backed up on the "T" near the hospital and at 10 minutes to 8 o'clock the train left for Washington.

The first intimation that anything was wrong came in rumors to the great crowd that was patiently waiting around the Columbia club and the sailors and soldiers monument, for the president to appear. It was about 6:30 o'clock, about an hour after the time set for the president leaving the city that a few favored ones in the crowd received intimations that the president was sick and that the rest of the trip would probably be abandoned. These statements were promptly denied as fast as they gained currency, but soon the rumors began to take on a more serious character.

"The president has burst a blood vessel," was a whisper that went around among the police officers and soldiers.

"This cannot be true," said others, "for the president is in the corridor conversing with Senator Fairbanks."

Then it was said that the president was sick and that he had fainted and finally a rumor was started that he had been shot. These rumors, however, did not appear to reach the crowd and the thousands stood patiently after the speech by the president from the balcony to see him make his way out of the club. The minutes began to slip away and still he did not come. A half hour or more passed and finally it was noticed that a movement of some kind was on.

The president's carriage stood in front of the entrance of the club, with Colonel Wilson, the governor's private secretary, inside holding the large bunch of American Beauty roses that had been given the president in the hall. The soldiers of the National guard were drawn up just in the rear. The secret service men and the local police and detectives crowded the sidewalks in front of the club, keeping back the people. The command was given to make room and a path was cleared from the club entrance to the carriage, and as if in answer to the rumors of his illness, the president, accompanied by Senator Fairbanks, with a quick and sturdy gait, came down the steps of the club and hastily entered the carriage. Colonel Wilson got out and Senator Fairbanks, Secretary Cortelyou and Governor Durbin took seats in the carriage with the president. The carriage started immediately, the horses being urged into a trot. The second carriage containing the secret service officers, followed closely in its wake and a third one containing Assistant Secretaries Loeb and Barnes and Drs. George J. Cook and J. J. Richardson, closed up the rear.

No sooner had the carriages started than battery A, with 20 mounted artillerymen and as many mounted police, surrounded them and in a few seconds the cavalcade swung at a rapid gait down Meridian street. The crowd in the circle had hardly got a glimpse of the carriages before they were gone. Much to their surprise the soldiers were left behind and also a number of the carriages. Yet they sent up a cheer and apparently took it for granted that there was nothing unusual in this method of leave-taking.

The cavalcade started south on Meridian street between rows of bunting-up humanity held back from the street by ropes. A slight rain had begun to fall and this appeared to furnish the reason why the carriage containing the president should be entirely closed. Amid the sound of many horses trotting upon the asphalt and the rattling of the carriages could be heard the cheers of the people who though they could not see the chief executive of the nation thought they were bidding him a goodbye. For three squares along South Meridian street, the carriages and escort went at a good gait, distancing those who attempted to keep up with them. Finally the station was reached and a slight delay was occasioned in crossing the tracks because of a train that was about to leave. The engine was stopped as it started on its way across the street and the carriages went galloping over the tracks and on to South street.

The crowd that had gathered at the east end of the station looked upon this maneuver with wonder but the carriages turned sharply to the east on South street and in a few minutes the distance of several squares to the St. Vincent hospital was covered. As soon as Captain Hyland of the police arrived there he alighted, and running to the door of the president's carriage, which had stopped, he assisted him to alight and walked with Senator Fairbanks and Governor Durbin up the steps of the hospital. The occupants of the third carriage quickly followed and at the same time Captain Cullen had stationed his artillerymen about the entrance and a squad of police, who had been sent to the hospital before the president left the club, appeared and formed a cordon about the building. Everything was done with dispatch and the gathering crowds were kept at a distance.

No one was allowed to enter the hospital except those belonging to the president's party or those who had special business there. From the time the president left the Columbia club until he found himself in the hospital, not more than 10 minutes had elapsed. The whole movement had been carefully planned in the Columbia club before it was carried out and the utmost effort was made to keep any inkling of what was to occur from reaching the street. The necessary orders to the police and soldiers were not given until the last moment and in this way the knowledge that something was amiss was confined to those who had an official interest in the president's movements. The first public knowledge of the true state of affairs came in the form of a bulletin which was issued by Secretary Cortelyou and in a short time the newspaper offices were the center of excited crowds.

After the president entered the operating room with the physicians he sat down on a stool and waited for instructions from the physicians and surgeons, watching their preparations with keen interest.

"I am sorry that I cannot continue my western trip," said he to Cortelyou, "but you let me go ahead with it after this thing is over."

Several of the surgeons turned to him and one said:

"It is my opinion that you would be very indiscreet to continue on your feet as would be necessary in your speech-making trip after the operation. This is by no means a serious thing and there is absolutely no danger of serious consequences from it if you are careful and stay off your feet until the trouble is over. But you should by all means, Mr. President, discontinue your trip."

"Very well, then, it will have to be that way," said the president, resignedly. "I will do as you gentlemen say. Now, what do you want me to do?"

The president was told to remove his shoes and stockings and nether garments. He also removed his coat and vest. A moment later, however, he was told to simply remove his shoes and he would be required to bare the leg only. This was done. The president walked to the operating table alone, and as he lay down he remarked, with a smile:

"Gentlemen, you are formal. I see you have your gloves on."

This was a reference to the antiseptic gloves of the surgeons.

"Mr. President," said a surgeon, with a smile, "it is always in order to wear gloves at a president's reception."

This caused the president to exclaim: "Good, well said."

The operation began without delay. The pain caused the president to mutter several times in a low voice, but he said nothing that was distinct except to ask for a glass of water before the needle had been removed. After the removal was over he made several laughing remarks concerning trivial matters and asked if he would be allowed to use his leg long enough to walk upstairs himself.

"You will be hauled upstairs in a wheeled ambulance," said a surgeon.

When they brought the vehicle the president said:

"Why, that's a wheelbarrow."

After being taken to the upper room from the operating room the president was served with a light luncheon and chatted pleasantly to those in the room. He made several kind remarks to the attending nurses about the trouble he was causing and shifted his position several times nervously.

At 7:40 p. m., a white blanket was thrown around him and he was placed on the hospital stretcher and escorted by a company of infantry, was carried to the car a block away, by four negro porters from the train. He bade good bye to the nurses as he was being carried out of the hall to the elevator and thanked them for their kindness. He did not talk during his trip to the car. Senator Fairbanks, Governor Durbin and other prominent citizens were at the train to bid him good bye.

The swelling of the president's leg which made an operation necessary was occasioned by a bruise he received at the time of the trolley accident at Pittsfield, Mass., when the president's carriage was run into and demolished by a car. Beside being injured in the face and across the eye the president at that time received a blow upon the inner part of the left leg between the ankle and knee but he paid no attention to it, ignoring it as being a slight bruise not worth talking about. For several weeks he took no heed of it but finally it began to pain him so as to enforce his attention. After starting on his western trip he determined that perhaps Dr. Lung, who was aboard the train, should examine it. The doctor did so and pronounced it a serious matter. When in Detroit the doctor finally said that something would have to be done. After consulting with Dr. Richardson, another member of the party, it was decided that in order to avoid the possibility of blood poisoning it probably would be wise to have an operation performed.

The president was very much opposed to anything of the kind being done, but nevertheless when Logansport, Ind., had been reached he had been prevailed upon to deliver the tariff speech which had been prepared for delivery at Milwaukee and which was regarded as one of the most important of his proposed speeches for the west. At Logansport, Senator Beveridge boarded the train and after a consultation with him it was decided that he should summon several of the best physicians of Indianapolis to meet the president and with this end in view, the senator telegraphed to Dr. George H. Oliver, Dr. George J. Cook and Dr. Henry Jameson to be at the Massachusetts avenue station. When the train pulled into the station the doctors were there and they were taken by the senator into the president's car. The physicians accompanied the party to Tomlinson hall, and it was thought by those who noticed them that they were merely present as members of the reception committee.

When the president arose to acknowledge the reception given him at the hall and also when he got up from his seat to make his speech, it was noticed by those near him in the front of the hall that he stood with all his weight on his right leg and the posture seemed so awkward and so much like a pose that it caused more than one comment. During the delivery of his speech when he had become aroused he stood on both legs, and at one point in his speech he seemed to forget about his injury so completely that he took several steps, and in so doing hit his leg against a gun that was stacked with others on the stage. An expression of pain passed quickly over his face, which was remarked upon by many listening to him, who could not understand why he should make such peculiar facial expressions.

The trip to the Columbia club followed without any feature that would give even a hint that the western trip of the president was at an end. Everyone, including even those who were in the president's party outside of Secretary Cortelyou and the physicians, had no thought but that the program was to be carried out to the end and it was a gay throng that marched into the club to take luncheon and have a little rest. But instead of going into the dining room the president was taken into a private room, where unknown to the bustling crowd inside and outside of the club he was made the subject of a serious consultation by the physicians. His leg was bared and the swelling examined. After a considerable time the physicians arrived at the verdict.

Dr. Oliver said:

"In order to avoid possible blood-poisoning settling in it, it will be necessary for the president to submit to a slight operation and in this view all the other doctors concurred. The president demurred, but his objections were overruled by the argument that a man in his position could not afford to take chances. The president wished that the operation, since it was necessary, should be postponed until he reached Washington, but the physicians again proved obdurate. They said that while no very serious consequences might follow a postponement of the operation, still there remained a possibility that there might. They gave it as their opinion that the bruise could not be trifled with and that they could not afford, under all the circumstances, to take any chances in postponing the needed surgical attention. The verdict of the doctors being thus pronounced, there was nothing left to be done but to carry out their mandate.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 24.—A dispatch to the Velo from Montpellier, department of Herault, says that Count De La Vaulx's balloon has been driven ashore and descended yesterday afternoon at Capite, between Villeroi and Les Salines.

"THE NEW RAILROAD JACK"

"The New Railroad Jack," the spectacular melodrama, will be seen at the Temple theater Saturday afternoon and evening. The company has a strong cast and the play is set in superb scenic surroundings. The play abounds with good, wholesome comedy and will no doubt be accorded a hearty welcome in this city, as it comes at popular prices. The prices for the matinee Saturday afternoon at 2:30 will be 15 and 25 cents. In the evening seats will be placed on sale at 25, 35 and 50 cents. "The New Railroad Jack" will open Temple theater for the season. This house has always proved popular with the people, the large audiences that [illegible] the attractions given there last winter being evidence of the fact.

"THE WILL SPEAKS"

Greatest Very Close in the Estate Proposes the Greatest Possibilities of the Institution—Trustees Given Ample Power in Carrying Out the Project's Success.

The feeling which has developed in the city regarding that provision of Mr. Stratton's will which creates the "Myron Stratton home" is regarded by many of the leading citizens of the city as, to say the least, premature.

The matter was one that lay very near to Mr. Stratton's heart and he thought he was endowing an institution that would not only be the means of doing a great deal of good in general, but would be a benefit to the city of Colorado Springs, for, while Mr. Stratton made no provision regarding the exact location of the home in El Paso county, it is generally believed he intended it should be at least tributary to this city. As far as can be learned without complete statistics upon the point, the "Myron Stratton home" will be the most richly endowed institution for charitable purposes in the United States—that is, endowed by a single individual.

As a gentleman prominent in the business world pointed out to a Gazette man yesterday, there is not a single provision of the will that gives any person the right to dub this monumental charity a "poorhouse," as has been repeatedly done during the past day or two.

Those in close touch with the gentlemen who were named by Mr. Stratton to create and manage the home say that nothing will be farther removed from an almshouse than will this home. While no definite plans have been made as yet, it can be stated on the very best authority that the home as an institution for paupers will never exist. There is not a word in the will that prevents the trustees of the home erecting a sanitarium, a hospital or a home, or, for that matter, all three. Mr. Stratton did not even say the money must all be put into one building. It is more than probable that the sanitarium feature of the home will be an important one. The leeway given the trustees would enable them to erect and maintain such a building as a part of the home, and there would probably be no objection raised on the part of the city to such a home. It can be stated on the best authority that there will be nothing about the home to make it objectionable, and it is predicted that in years to come, when the "Myron Stratton home" is a reality in El Paso county, those who are now objecting will be its warmest friends. It is hoped on every side that the trustees will not have obstacles thrown in their path to prevent the speedy carrying out of this provision of the dead millionaire's will. One point brought out yesterday by a gentleman in close touch with the estate is the amount allowed the trustees with which to build the home and beautify the grounds. One million dollars carefully expended under the direction of competent managers will erect a building or group of buildings that will compare with anything in the state. The trustees are all in hearty sympathy with Mr. Stratton's plan and they are united in feeling aggrieved over some of the objections raised to the project.

REPUBLICANS IN NEW YORK

[illegible] Are Still Arguing Over Who Was Responsible.

By Associated Press.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The difficulty in the Republican convention over the candidacy of George R. Sheldon for the lieutenant governorship, assumed such proportions this evening that Governor Odell was summoned from Albany for consultation. Word comes that he left the state capital for this place on a special train tonight. It has developed that Governor Odell today requested Mr. Sheldon to withdraw from the race for the nomination for the second place on the ticket. The governor gave as a reason that he was of the opinion that Mr. Sheldon's candidacy would jeopardize the success of the whole ticket. The governor added that he had selected Mr. Sheldon for the place and was his choice personal friend, but had reached the conclusion that it was best Mr. Sheldon should retire. Mr. Sheldon consulted with Senator Platt and, learning the senator's support, informed the governor he would not comply with the request.

Governor Odell then sent to Senator Platt and asked him to use his influence to get Mr. Sheldon to retire. Mr. Platt announced that he would not make the request and that Mr. Sheldon was to stay. In the meantime the Kings county delegation headed by Lieutenant Governor Woodruff, had had hints of Governor Odell's request and immediately resumed its attacks upon Mr. Sheldon. Shortly after the adjournment of the convention in the afternoon Lieutenant Governor Woodruff made this statement:

"I have no personal animosity against Mr. Sheldon. I believe that the objections that have been raised to him are of the gravest sort and that they jeopardize the state ticket. I have no personal ambition. I am not and will not be a candidate. I am interested in the success of the state ticket alone, irrespective of individuals. I am the unit voter for the largest county in the state next to New York county. I believe that Kings county should have something to say in nominating a ticket."

When shown the statement of the lieutenant governor, Senator Platt said:

"Perhaps we can get a Dr. Woodruff a little lesson in good manners. It should the idea of any one that we can be offended because a man happens to be a candidate. Is Kings county to control the situation? Mr. Sheldon is a candidate and is not withdrawn at all. Tell Mr. Woodruff that for me.

"Woodruff could have many things. He has had them. He has been refused some lately and it is ill advised of him to seek to make trouble. His concern for the party is very touching, but there are others of larger experience who are equally interested and more capable of judging."

When the news of this trouble between the leaders became public in its entirety, the previous apathetic attitude of the rank and file of the delegates to the state convention changed to one of liveliest interest. By 6 o'clock in the evening, Governor Odell was being urged by his personal friends to come to Saratoga and settle the controversy, but to this request he at first answered that he had signified what his wishes in the matter were and that the convention could work out the situation itself. His esteem and regard for Mr. Sheldon was as great as ever, but because of certain revelations he had become convinced that Mr. Sheldon could not help and would only hurt the ticket.

Governor Odell's friends then began to work actively to get Mr. Sheldon to retire, and as a result of the agitation telegrams began pouring in from all parts of the state asking delegates not to vote for Sheldon on the ground of his business affiliations. Late from up the state were apprised of the fact that the governor was averse to Mr. Sheldon's nomination and towards 9 o'clock the news was known about the hotel corridors. About that time Governor Odell, in response to a query from Lieut. Gov. Woodruff as to his attitude on the Sheldon matter, sent a telegram saying that he (Odell) would not run on the ticket if Sheldon's name was on it. Governor O'Dell's father and brother then went to the telephone and told the governor that he must come to Saratoga and straighten out the matter.

Governor Odell reached here at 9:25 o'clock. It was suggested to him that he go at once to the Orange county headquarters, but he replied, "No, I will go at once to Senator Platt."

Arriving at the United States hotel, followed by a score of interested politicians, the governor was applauded. He passed on to Senator Platt's cottage. Senator Platt, Governor Odell and George R. Sheldon were in conference for a period of two hours. At 2:30 o'clock Governor Odell left the room and announced that Mr. Sheldon had withdrawn from the contest. At this hour the indications are that Senator Frank A. Higgins of Cattaraugus will be the nominee for lieutenant governor. The announcement of the withdrawal of Mr. Sheldon from the ticket caused [illegible] cheers. Many of the anxious [illegible] who [illegible] the conference between the leaders.

Governor Odell stated after the conference that the discussion throughout had been of a most pleasant character. He said that after the situation had been considered with several of the leaders, Senator Platt and Mr. Sheldon retired to a rear room and discussed the matter. Mr. Sheldon was finally convinced that it was to the best interests of the party that he withdraw, owing to the fact that numerous stories current, whether true or not, would prove disadvantageous to the best interests of the party. Governor Odell was very tired and retired at once, announcing that he would stay in Saratoga until Wednesday morning.

The dead:

George Andrews, Denver, engineer, instantly killed.

Thomas Philburn, Pueblo, fireman, fatally injured, died in few minutes.

The engine was hauling a heavy freight up the divide and had left Monument in perfect condition, and the explosion is supposed to have taken place without the slightest warning, neither member of the engine crew evidently having made the slightest effort to get out of the machine. Andrews was instantly killed, his body being terribly mutilated and hurled in all directions. Fireman Philburn was hurled through the air hundreds of feet, striking the ground a long distance from the wreck, in being still alive when found, but death coming within a very few minutes. Philburn was 24 years of age and was one of the best-known and best-liked young men of Pueblo. He was a graduate of the Centennial High school of that city and was also well known here. Engineer Andrews had been with the Rio Grande road since 1885 and was one of the most trusted engineers in the employ of the company.

The wreck itself was a peculiar one. The locomotive was entirely demolished, nothing being left except the trucks, which remained on the track. The track was not damaged and the train was hauled away with almost no delay whatever to traffic.

Coroner Law was summoned and left last night for the scene to investigate in so far as he finds it possible.

[illegible] WILL SAY [illegible]

Attorney James [illegible] Brown of Denver, Said to Have Compared It With the Famous Tilden Will.

Attorney James H. Brown of Denver was a visitor in Colorado Springs last night and is said to have come here on business in connection with the Stratton will. The report could not be verified, however, and it is possible that his trip to the city had nothing whatever to do with the Stratton estate.

Mr. Brown was quoted by a friend last night as having expressed the opinion that the Stratton will could be broken if the heirs should make the attempt, and that he would make the attempt he could not be [illegible] in claiming the [illegible] left him by the will as it stands. He said pretty good evidence could be [illegible] in Colorado Springs and vicinity to the effect that Mr. Stratton had been mentally unbalanced for several years, for a great many years, in fact, by reason of a violent and unjust prejudice against the young man whom the will names as his son. Mr. Brown is also quoted as having said that the clause in the Stratton will creating the board of trustees for his estate is identical with the trustee clause in the famous Samuel J. Tilden will, which was set aside by the courts. He also says that he regards the forfeiture clause, as applying to the son, as poor law, on the ground that every man has a right to secure justice, and that in contesting the will in this case young Mr. Stratton would be merely exercising that right.

THE MYRON STRATTON HOME.

THERE IS nothing in the terms of the W. S. Stratton will, or in the character of the trustees named by it to warrant the conclusion that the founding of the Myron Stratton home will be a detriment or an injury to this community.

That the matter is one requiring good judgment and great carefulness is evident, but it has in it such possibilities for good that it ought to be the earnest wish of this community that the will should be carefully executed according to its terms.

Mr. Stratton certainly did not intend to endow a gigantic poorhouse for the benefit of the surplus paupers of this country and we do not believe that any reasonable interpretation of the will can lead to any such conclusion.

What he did intend to do, beyond any little doubt was to establish in a particularly favorable location a hospital or asylum, a home for the worthy unfortunate and to provide a legal corporation competent to execute his purpose. The will was carefully drawn by competent legal advisors to permit of the accomplishment of this national and commendable purpose and it is to be presumed in the absence of positive evidence to the contrary that it is sufficient to do this.

It is easy enough to talk about breaking the will but there seems to be a popular notion that it is a matter of accomplishment. But it should be borne in this connection that there is only one way that profit by the upsetting of the provision for the Myron Stratton home would be if the will were invalid, there is no doubt that the property would go to the state as part of the residue and it is very doubtful if any attempt to do so would succeed. It would be a task to prove the will invalid, but the task is not an impossible one.

Application for probate has been made and some time something definite may be done one way or another. In the meantime it is to be hoped that this will will not be broken and that the significant plan for a charity will be carried out.

THE UNITED STATES AND ROUMANIA.

THE CONVERSE of the Monroe doctrine forbidding the interference of European powers in strictly American affairs is that the United States should not concern itself with matters relating to the continental affairs of European states. This rule has been closely adhered to and no one has had cause of complaint against the United States for interfering in the domestic affairs of any European nation or in their relations toward each other. It occasionally happens however that some matter arises in which the United States is directly concerned and in such cases it has been necessary for our government and official representatives to take action. Such was the case in Turkey when the property of American residents was destroyed and their treaty rights were violated.

A more recent instance of this sort of thing has occurred in relation to the treatment of Jews by the government of Roumania. According to the Berlin treaty of 1878, which was signed and guaranteed by most of the great nations of Europe, civil and religious freedom was promised to the people of Roumania without regard to race or creed. Now in one sense it is none of our national business whether the Jews of Roumania are protected in their civil and religious rights or not, neither is it any of our business whether the signatory powers to the treaty of 1878 require the carrying out of its provisions, or regard it as a dead letter.

But it so happens that the action of the government of Roumania has as a natural consequence and its probable object the inducing of these oppressed to emigrate to the United States, and this ultimate result is accomplished only after a term of preliminary oppression and persecution has made them a most undesirable class of immigrants to our country.

It is therefore proper that the United States being deeply interested in the matter, should call the attention of Europe to the violation of this treaty and should protest against a course of action which does injure our national interests.

It is hardly to be supposed that Secretary Hay's protest will result in the correction of these evils or that the signatory powers will insist upon the observance of the badly broken treaty. But it will at least serve to attract general attention to the wrong that is being done the Jews, and it will lead to a better appreciation of any repressive legislation that it may be necessary for us to protest in the future.

New York newspaper readers do not feel at home unless they are presented each morning with the particulars of some particularly horrid and gruesome murder. Some of these do not reach a larger circle than the limits of the metropolis while others have some special feature that makes them matters of national interest. This appears to be the case in the latest murder horror of the metropolis, in which the grandson of Brigham Young is accused of an atrocious murder.

We welcome the opening of the football season. It is a great game, in spite of all that has been said against it. It has more of good than evil in it, both for participants and spectators. And a game that is played by boys, merely for the love of good sport and by virtue of an enthusiasm of youth, is a better game to play and look at than one that is merely the day's work of professionals.

GRAND OPERA FOR COLORADO SPRINGS.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that the initial performance of grand opera in this city will be given on next Thanksgiving night. On account of its larger seating capacity the opera will be given in the Temple theater. Assurance is given that the company will be first class in every particular and that the performance will be satisfactory to the musical circles of this city.

It is a good deal of an undertaking to bring such a company to Colorado Springs, and hitherto Denver has been the only city of the state able to support grand opera performances. It is a notable tribute to the musical culture of this city that of the three dates of his company in Colorado one should be in Colorado Springs and two in Denver.

The Gazette believes however that no mistake has been made and that there is sufficient local patronage to justify the necessary expense.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRIP.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has done a wise thing in following President McKinley's example in making an extended trip through the country. It is hardly possible for the president to make a trip as far as the Pacific coast each year, but every president should make at least one trip to the western border in his term of office and he should if not absolutely inconsistent with the public interest make occasional journeys in order to see the people of different sections and to be seen of them.

Such journeys if properly managed never fail to promote patriotism and a popular interest in national affairs and on the other hand they tend directly toward a better understanding of local conditions by national politicians and statesmen.

President Roosevelt is already better informed than most presidents in regard to the various sections of the country and what is happening in them but it will do no harm for him to extend his knowledge and freshen it with frequent visits to the west.

TOO HIGH A RATE.

THE DECISION of the arbitrator in the matter of the Cripple Creek rate war is in favor of a passenger tariff of $5 for the round trip. This is too high and the Gazette believes that a lower rate would be better for the railroads as well as for the traveling public.

It has been pretty well demonstrated that one of the lines between this city and Cripple Creek can carry passengers profitably for the round trip rate of four dollars and it is a proper subject for public protest when the rate is forced above that figure. It is not the fault of the people who travel if the older and longer road cannot carry passengers profitably at the smaller rate.

A SUCCESSFUL AERONAUT.

THE MOST successful voyage in the air thus far recorded is that of an English aeronaut by the name of Stanley Spencer. On last Friday Spencer, in an airship of his own invention accomplished a trip of 30 miles, which is said to be three times the best distance made by Santos Dumont. The atmospheric conditions were favorable and the trip was accomplished without any mishap. The airship consisted of a car supported by a hydrogen gas-bag and the power was furnished by a petroleum motor of 30 horse power. In the course of the trip the aeronaut dropped several dummy bombs to illustrate the military possibilities of the machine.

It would appear from the published accounts that Mr Spencer has made a really notable advance over anything previously accomplished in the way of airship construction and operation, and the success of his experiment goes far to demonstrate with absolute certainty the successful navigation of the air in the near future in more than an experimental way.

It is to be hoped that Mr Spencer is planning to participate in the great aeronautical contest at the St Louis fair.

A WISE DECISION.

A WISE decision has been made by the United States department of the interior in holding that the lands temporarily withdrawn from settlement or account of possible irrigation reservoir locations, are still subject to location under the homestead law, but subject to the additional conditions imposed by the irrigation law.

In this way there will be no delay in settlement or improvement. The land may be occupied immediately by actual settlers and the work of improvement begun. In some cases the settlers will be taking chances of getting land that will not be irrigated in the near future but that is their lookout and the government will not guarantee to furnish the water or construct the reservoirs as planned. But it is better that the arid lands should be settled gradually in this way than that these reservations should be thrown open all at once when the precise limits of the irrigable districts are established.

The Trinidad Chronicle-News of September 22 is a special number containing illustrations and descriptive articles of Trinidad and the neighboring towns and camps. Such special numbers as this one are always an evidence of business activity and prosperity, and almost invariably they serve well the purposes they are designed to accomplish. They not only stir up local business enterprise, but they call the attention of the outside world to local resources and opportunities and lead to increased immigration and investment. The Chronicle-News makes a showing that is in every way creditable to itself and to Las Animas county.

There are very good reports of the political situation in southwest Colorado, and the Republicans in that region are very hopeful of the result in November. Many of the counties that have been strongholds of Fusionism are now counted as safe for the Republican ticket, while in others the dissensions of the late Fusion allies will reduce the big majorities almost to the vanishing point. Mr. Hogg's friends in that region are especially confident and declare that they are going to assure his election as congressman from the First district beyond any doubt.

The Salida Record of September 19 is a special edition devoted to the interests and enterprises of that thriving city. Particular attention is given to the new smelter of the Ohio and Colorado company now in course of erection. The Record enjoys a reputation as one of the best looking, as well as the ablest weeklies in the state and this special edition is in thorough keeping with its general style.

George Fred Williams' motto henceforward will un doubtedly be, "After you my dear Gaston."

THE RETURN OF THE BIRDS.

They Begin Their Twittering Flight Southward in September.

For the lover of birds september is a month in which every hour at the desk or in the office is sorely begrudged. Once again is the shrubbery filled with the old friends whose acquaintance was made early in the spring. In August the search for bird-life was oftimes most discouraging and it would seem that the feathered folk had deserted all the dear old haunts. But in this month behold the feathered hosts once more. The first cool weather brings a wave of the little winged emigrants most of them being the warblers. They are on their way south from land to the tropics. The new dresses of many of them make recognition a bit difficult. A greater number are young birds which have not yet attained the plumage of maturity. Then too many of the adult birds have donned their traveling gowns which are much sobered than the gorgeous dress of the nuptial season. The spring songs are in abeyance now but the familiar twitterings and characteristic notes are to be heard wherever the birds are found. The fall flight is in reality one of the most interesting phases of bird-study. He who would know his feathered friends thoroughly must be abroad with note-book and pencil daily for many of the birds tarry but for a day or two on their way south.

Species which are very abundant and common in the spring will often be seen in unexpected numbers during the fall migration as if they varied their routes of travel between the limits of their habitat. Those who dwell along the seacoast have an opportunity of studying a phase of bird life the tragedy of migration which those further inland know nothing of. At no season of the year do so many of the feathered folk come to untimely death by dashing against the lighthouses as in the September flight. Based upon this in part is due to the fact that a large percentage of the migrants are making their first long journey. Then again September nights are inclined to be foggy. The result is that the glare of the big seacoast beacons seemingly confuses the feathered travelers and thousands dash themselves to death. From September 1 to 10 many a journey of the summer will take their departure for warmer climes. The worm-eating warbler and the blue-winged warbler are among the first to depart.

With them will go the rough-winged swallow, the orchard oriole and the Acadian fly-catcher. During these same early days the black-polled warbler, the Canada warbler and the Lincoln sparrow are likely to arrive from the north tarrying briefly on their way south. During the next ten days we may say good by to the purple martin, the Baltimore oriole, the yellow-bird and that acme of perfection, the king of living gold, the willow warbler. At this time in the low damp meadows and marshes that erratic flyer, who is at once a delight and an exasperation to the sportsman, Wilson's snipe is to be found. He does not linger. The black-headed vireo, the olive-backed thrush and Bicknell's thrush will also make a departure, and at about the 30 days the departures and arrivals of many become coincidentes. The Lincoln's sparrow, the olive-sided flycatcher, the hermit thrush, the golden-crowned kinglet and the ruby-crowned kinglet come from the north in distress and later will seek a more southern latitude. Along the seacoast the great black-backed herring gull arrives to spend the winter. All through the month the various waders such as the sandpiper, the plover, the curlew and the yellow-legs come down in great flocks along the salt marshes traveling to the south. The flight of these birds is usually heaviest in the early part of the month and by the end of the month only a few belated stragglers are to be seen. The first returners of the great web-footed tribe begin to arrive but the main flight will not be for some weeks yet. Thus it is that the bird student who would keep in touch with the feathered world finds his hours afield in September are all too short.—Country Life in America.

Tulips and Hyacinths—Now Is the Time to Plant If You Want Them

I should like to procure some plants like those beautiful ones in bloom in the park. Is an order given to the gardener many times daily during the spring, while hyacinths, tulips, narcissi and other spring flowering bulbs are delighting the spectators with their gorgeous hues.

The same old answer has to be repeated again and again. The flowers which you describe are produced from bulbs which must be planted in the fall they will then flower the following spring. It is now entirely too late.

It is really surprising how few people realize that while their gardens are in their autumn glory it is also the proper time to order and plant hardy, spring-flowering bulbs, without which in all gardens will be bare of flowers for many weeks the following season. In fact there are many people who do not know what bulbs are. For the benefit of such I will state that flowering bulbs are like an onion. The roots and foliage die away and ripen off, leaving the naked bulb in the heart of which are stored incipient flowers, stems and leaves which are thus sustained while the bulb remains in a dormant condition. During the dormant season bulbs may be dug up, shipped, stored and replanted like so many potatoes and after their term of rest has expired conditions being congenial they will again start into growth first throwing out roots and then developing the stored-up leaves and flowers.

As the majority of hardy flowering bulbs ripen off during the early summer months and as they do not naturally remain in a dormant condition longer than from three to six months, it is absolutely essential that they be planted in the fall. This permits them to make their root-growth before freezing weather sets in and the better the root-growth the better will be the flower.

Bulbs planted very late in the fall or carried over winter in cold storage and planted in the spring seldom give satisfactory flowers, for the reason that the foliage and flowers commence to develop as soon as the roots therefore the flowers cannot develop beyond the sustenance supplied by the rootless bulbs and this sustenance is usually exhausted when the flowers are about half grown. While it is true that the flowers etc are formed within the bulb before they ripen off, yet it is absolutely essential for their maximum development that the bulbs become thoroughly rooted before the tops are allowed to start.

A good rule to follow as to the proper time to plant hardy spring-flowering bulbs in the open ground is from four to six weeks before freezing nights are expected. Then the under soil is still warm enough to induce root-action while the cooler surface and air checks top-growth until spring.—(Country Life in America.

Lord Salisbury's Peculiarities.

From a personal and critical article on Lord Salisbury, written for the Outlook by Mr. Justin McCarthy author of "A History of Our Own Times" and "The Story of Gladstone's Life," we quote an interesting passage which shows why Lord Salisbury sometimes failed to grasp the reins of leadership firmly.

"Lord Salisbury's frame of mind was one which could never allow him to become even for a moment a thorough partisan and through all the later years of his power he held the office of prime minister for a time which lingoism was the order of the day among the outside supporters of the conservative government. He never had a fair chance for the full development of his intellectual faculties while he remained at the head of a conservative administration. Under happier conditions he might have been a great prime minister and a leading force in political movement but his intellect, his tastes and the habits of life did not allow him to pay much deference to the prejudices and passion of those of whom he was compelled to rely for support. There was too much in him of the thinker, the scholar and the recluse to make him a thoroughly effective leader of the party who had to acknowledge his command. He loved nothing he loved literature and art and he took no delight in the formal social functions which are in our days an important part of successful political administration. He could not be a hail-fellow well met with every pushing follower who made it a point to be on terms of companionship with the leader of the party. I have often heard that he had a singularly bad memory for faces and that many a devoted Tory follower found his enthusiasm chilled every now and then by the obvious fact that the prime minister did not seem to remember anything about the identity of his obtrusive admirer. Much the same thing has been said over and over again about Mr Gladstone but then Gladstone had the inborn genius of leadership threw his soul into every great political movement and did not depend in the slightest degree on his faculty for appreciating and remembering every individual follower. Lord Salisbury stands alone for the society of his close personal friends and I believe no man could be a more genial host in the company of those with whom he loved to sup late but he had no interest in the ordinary ways of society and made no effort to conciliate those with whom he found himself in no manner of companionship. He did not even take any strong interest in the study of the most remarkable figure in the political world around him. If he did not feel drawn into sympathy with their ways and their opinions on one occasion when a report had got about in the newspapers that Lord Salisbury was often on the friendly companionship with Mr Parnell in the smoking room of the house of commons Lord Salisbury publicly stated that he had never had his knowledge seen Parnell and he had never been once in the house of commons during term."

For the Benefit of the Children's Hospital of San Francisco

Impressions of her experience as a nurse in the Children's Hospital have been collected into a group of short stories by Gertrude La Page soon to be published by Elder and Shepard under the title of "Children of the Thorn Wreath" with illustrations by Marion Holden.

The inherent joyousness of childhood rises triumphant even in the sad environment of a hospital and the joy of childhood therefore and not the hospital tragedy forms the keynote of the volume.

The full page and marginal illustrations will be printed in delicate tints and the binding will be in gray French fabric of blue and white with decorations in gold.

Following we quote the introduction of Miss La Page.

"I associate childhood with joyousness. A little sick child appeals to me as nothing else will. While these sketches are intended as an appeal there has also been an endeavor to touch child life as it really is in a children's hospital. I have hoped to show that they are really just like other children and I am glad to say that they are frequently mischievous and sometimes bad. Yet even Lenter the beautiful who used to put his arms about one's neck in peaceful moments, saying 'You're most as good as God' has been known to cry out in anger between shut teeth 'You're a witch, you're a witch.'

As a rule they do not suffer so much pain as is generally supposed. The cruel looking irons often give them almost immediate relief as, for instance in hip disease when the weight applied actually separates the two irritated surfaces and life is thus made bearable to the little patient who soon adapts himself to the new order of things.

"The beautiful thing about it all is this wonderful adaptability of childhood to its surroundings. Instead of fretting about his troubles, as his elders are apt to do the little one looks about him for a bit of sunshine. Childhood is one out never in. And so even under the worst conditions, childhood is generally happy.

"Who of us might not take this lesson of happy childhood to himself? And if perhaps, there is one somewhere whose body not only is confined within but whose soul too has grown in and in forgetting that the world is great and wide and full. If such an one reading shall say, I, too will become as a little child, then it might be that the lives of these little ones have not been entirely in vain."

Be aristocratic in thought to think the best things, be aristocratic in manner to do the best things, be aristocratic in speech to speak the best things, but be democratic in sympathies, love every fellow man, no matter how humble, and be democratic in your services. Grasp every opportunity to assist your fellows.—(Percy Stickney Grant.

"Molly, I wish you would be a better little girl," said an Austin father to his little daughter. "You have no idea how sorry I am that mamma has to scold you all the time."

"Don't worry about it pa," was the reply of the little angel. "I am not one of those sensitive children." Half the time I don't hear what she says.—(Exchange.

[illegible]'S BOND WILL BE EN[illegible]

[illegible] Customary Rule s Followed in the Stratton Case—[illegible] to Be Proved on October 4—[illegible]. Stratton Direc[illegible] to Be Present.

[illegible]ably the largest bond ever [illegible] of the executors of an estate [illegible] required of Carl S. Chamberlin, [illegible] S. Dines and D. H. Rice, who [illegible]named as executors of the will [illegible] late W. S. Stratton, if the cus[illegible] rule is followed out. According [illegible]etition which they filed in the [illegible] court yesterday praying for the [illegible]ion of the will to probate, the [illegible]al property of the deceased is [illegible]ted as being worth about $5,[illegible]. The rule is to require a bond [illegible]ice the sum of the property of [illegible]tator, and the executors' bond therefore be $10,000,000. To [illegible] such a bond the surety com[illegible] would probably have to be [illegible]upon. Five million dollars is [illegible] course, the true value of the [illegible] Stratton estate, the estimate [illegible] formality.

[illegible] Orr, in response to the peti[illegible]t the hearing of the will for [illegible] 4, that being the date re[illegible] in the petition. Accompany[illegible] petition was proof of death of [illegible]ation signed by Dr. Rice. The petition is not lengthy and simply recites the death of the testator, the fact of the existence of the will, bearing the signatures of D. H. Rice, William Lloyd and Orville L. Dines as witnesses; that I. Harry Stratton is the sole heir-at-law and next of kin; the appointment of the executors in the will and the fact that the deceased was possessed of a real and personal estate consisting chiefly of residence property in Colorado Springs, choses in action, and stocks and bonds, all of the personal estate being estimated to be worth $5,000,000. Then follows the request for a hearing upon the will on October 4, at 10 a. m. The executors waive service of a citation and ask that letters testamentary be issued to them.

In granting the petition, Judge Orr directed the issuance of a citation to I. Harry Stratton, as son of the testator, and the sole heir-at-law, requiring him to attend the probate of the will, and also directed the issuance of summons to D. H. Rice, William Lloyd and Orville L. Dines as witnesses.

[illegible]STRONG FORGERY [illegible]ASE ON TRIAL

[illegible]e Armstrong is on trial before [illegible]eeds and a jury in the district [illegible]on a charge of forgery. The [illegible]k up all of yesterday but will [illegible] be given to the jury some [illegible]s morning. Armstrong, the [illegible] is a fine-looking fellow, and [illegible] who has been faithful to him [illegible]ut his trouble, is a sweet-[illegible]tle woman who sits in the [illegible]om watching the progress of [illegible]with the greatest anxiety.

[illegible]articular charge against Arm[illegible] the forgery of a check for [illegible]which the name of Mary A. [illegible]s signed. It was drawn upon [illegible]t National bank and made [illegible]to G. A. Williams, being in[illegible]with that name. There was a [illegible]e of opinion between the at[illegible]yesterday regarding the intro[illegible]of other checks said to have [illegible]ged in a similar manner, ex[illegible]s to the amounts, and after [illegible]ble argument the court ad[illegible]om. The defense, which is [illegible]ed by C. L. McKesson, contended that the evidence was inadmissible because he had come prepared to try the case only upon the one charge. T. J. Black, the deputy district attorney, is conducting the case for the state.

The jurymen are C. E. Maddocks, J. P. Hendron, J. R. Moore, David Finley, A. L. Steingol, H. L. Ellington, Adam Deagle, Walter Burlew, John Howard, C. C. Bradshaw, Ben S. Irwin and George Hopkins.

Armstrong and his wife lived for a number of months at Mrs. Older's residence in the eastern end of town. The complaining witness is an invalid and it was necessary to carry her up and down stairs to the court room in a chair.

The devotion shown her husband by Mrs. Armstrong has made quite an impression on the officers. She visited him almost daily during his confinement in the county jail, always carrying flowers or delicacies. She believes firmly that he is an innocent man.

Thus the test [illegible]urp to indicate the character of the water generally throughout the city. If any impurity existed it would be very quickly discovered.

"I believe that Colorado Springs has the purest water in the world," said Market Master Custer, who is familiar with the subject, said yesterday. "There is not the slightest impurity to be found even after the closest tests and it is my opinion that the Cabin creek water is equal in every way to distilled water. This may seem rather a broad assertion when it is considered that distilled water is supposed to represent the very quintessence of purity but the tests prove it."

The results of the analysis accompany the reports submitted every month to the council by Health Commissioner Hanford.

ASKS DISMISSAL OF SUIT BROUGHT BY [illegible]

Admitting most of the allegations contained in the complaint in the damage suit brought against him by W. M. Clifton for alleged false arrest, but claiming that he acted on the advice of his attorney and of the deputy district attorney, and further asserting that property belonging to him was found in Clifton's carpenter shop in Colorado City, Edward Meislahn yesterday filed an answer in the district court asking that the case be adjudged in his favor.

The answer admits that the defendant had Clifton arrested on a warrant sworn out of Justice Faulkner's court in Colorado City, upon a charge of stealing lumber valued at $126.85, on July 17 last, and admits that on July 24 the attorney for the state dismissed the case. He denies, however, that there was any malice in causing the arrest and asserts that with probable cause it was justifiable. The defendant claims that he laid the case before his attorney, J. K. Vanatta, an attorney learned in the law, and was advised by him to commence criminal proceedings; that he went to T. J. Black, the assistant district attorney, and laid the case before him, being again advised to proceed against Clifton. He says he lodged an affidavit in Justice Faulkner's court, upon which a search warrant was issued and that the defendant's carpenter shop in Colorado City, between Eighth and Ninth streets and between Colorado and Lincoln avenues, was searched and a portion of the stolen goods were found at a time when the premises and building were in the sole and exclusive control of the plaintiff in the case.

MILLER TO BE SENTENCED BY JUDGE SEEDS TODAY

Charles X. Miller, the slayer of William Hun, will not get a new trial, nor has he yet been sentenced. Judge Seeds of the district court yesterday denied the motion which was argued so strenuously before him at a night session Monday, but postponed sentence at the request of the attorneys for the convicted man, who desired to file a motion for an arrest of judgment. A hard fight is being made to keep Miller out of the penitentiary.

Several reasons were advanced by counsel for the defense in support of the motion for the new trial. One of the chief points raised was that the trial was held too soon after the commission of the crime and before public sentiment had died out. Another was that the court had erred in overruling objections made by the defense and in sustaining objections raised by the prosecution. Exceptions were also taken by the defendant's attorney to the manner in which Attorney Gardner, who assisted in the case, presented his argument to the jury.

Judge Seeds took the motion under advisement Monday night and announced his decision overruling it yesterday afternoon. But for the application for a postponement of the sentence, Miller would probably have known his fate at once.

The convicted man appears to have some very good friends and they are doing everything in their power to keep back the prison doors. The motion for the arrest of judgment will be filed in a short time.

WHOLE BLOCK WAS TRANSFERRED TODAY

Another large real estate deal in down-town property was consummated yesterday, involving the transfer of the Oriole block at 107-109½ south Tejon street. David DeGraff, who very recently disposed of the DeGraff building on North Tejon street, is the purchaser.

The building was owned by Bertram G. Robbins, and was sold by him yesterday to Henry McAllister, Jr., and Newton S. Gandy for $38,000. Later in the day McAllister & Gandy sold the same property to David DeGraff for a consideration said to be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Mr. Robbins purchased the property about a year ago and it is understood that he paid about $36,000 for it. McAllister & Gandy had intended purchasing the property as an investment, but the increased offer came so suddenly that they decided to take it. They had intended making improvements, among other things building a large building on the rear of the lot.

The Oriole block has a frontage of 50 feet on Tejon street and extends back 100 feet. Three storerooms are on the ground floor occupied by the Herring Shoe store, the Voss cigar store and billiard hall and a bakery. The second floor is occupied by offices of different kinds. The deal is one of a series of big transactions of the kind which have taken place in the city within the past few weeks and are indicative of the rapidly increasing demand and value of Colorado Springs property, especially that in the down-town district.

The deal of yesterday was negotiated by T. J. Downer, who bought the property for the attorneys, then sold it for them to Mr. DeGraff. He also negotiated the deal whereby Mr. Robbins secured the property a year ago.

MOVING PICTURES AGAIN DRAWING LARGE CROWDS

With the return of warmer weather, the moving picture exhibition at Cheyenne park has again become a fad, a large crowd being present last night. Should the nights again become cold this will probably be the last week for the pictures and an exceptionally long and interesting program has been put on to give the people sufficient encouragement for spending an hour at the park. It is an interesting fact that the pictures this week are within a few hundred feet of a mile in length, the film actually measuring 4,500 feet. The double program which was announced for Sunday and Monday nights will run through the week, the cold weather preventing a full attendance on the evenings named. From the standpoint of general interest the pictorial subjects far exceed any of the previous collections. This week the funny as well as the mysterious have the bulk of the program and larger audiences will mark the remainder of the engagement. It is not yet certain that the pictures will close Sunday night, the decision resting with the size of this week's crowds—if they are large, the free show will continue, so it rests with the people themselves whether they want moving pictures or not.

SMITH CASE WAS NOT TAKEN UP

Trial of the case of Charles E. Smith was not taken up in the district court yesterday as was expected, Judge Seeds being busy with another case. The trial was set for that time, but was not reached. It may be taken up today, although nothing to that effect has been signified by the court. Smith is charged with being an accessory to the misappropriation of funds, and much interest is manifested in the termination of the case on account of the abrupt disposal of the Hale case by the defendant entering a plea of guilty and having sentence postponed.

PELTA DEPT. STORE HAD BIG OPENING

Pelta's department store presented a fine appearance yesterday on the occasion of the fall opening. Throngs of visitors delightedly viewed the extensive display of suits, cloaks, millinery and dress goods as well as that made in the minor departments.

The main portion of the store was decorated in blue and white while the departments on either side were gay with prettily contrasting colors. During the evening hours, when music was furnished by the Alamo orchestra, the place was crowded.

The window display was most tasteful, particularly in the millinery department. The window and show cases were lined with fluffy white and brightened with graceful wreaths and sprays of autumn leaves. The columns and arches were a mass of fluted white silk, and curtains of point d'esprit gave the daintiest effect possible.

The display of foreign and domestic dress or street hats was very large and complete. Fine as has been the display the past season, that of the present far excels. Mr. Pelta is to be congratulated upon the acquisition of so tasteful and competent a manager as Mrs. Kuffman, for her hand could be seen everywhere. Much in evidence were the finest and most exclusive styles obtainable in the eastern millinery houses. Among the noticeable hats was one of picture style, black panne velvet trimmed with one long ostrich plume, the alternate rows of the under-rim facing of white in peau de soie and brussels net.

A Mme. Virot hat a dressy affair of round shape, was made of fawn chenille and silk interlaced. The facing was of alternate folds of white and fawn panne velvet. Trimming of fawn wings and fawn and white louisine ribbon rosettes.

In the placque hat was a Camille Rogers of black Lyons velvet and black wings. Facing of rose louisine silk.

Very striking was a large white beaver trimmed with two Amazon plumes, cream satin and pearl buckles. A young lady's hat in three shades of ruby velvet was greatly admired. The trimming was of louisine ribbon to compare and cream applique lace.

The showing in the suit and cloak department was excellent. Walking skirts in great variety were exhibited, particularly in the novel coronation cloth, most stylish in cut and finish.

Of the very latest was an elegant full-length Monte Carlo coat of biscuit kersey, finished with the fashionable high collar and large pearl buttons.

A 30-inch Monte Carlo in mode kersey was strapped with satin and panne to match, handsome passementerie ornaments and glass buttons edged with gold.

In long carriage coats was a plain black kersey made with an inverted box pleat and high astrachan collar. A lighter garment of the same cloth was short length and quite profusely trimmed with serpentine mohair braid.

[illegible]A GETS IN THE NICK OF TIME

DEPUTY SHERIFF LARABEE DID FAST WORK RUNNING DOWN A CLEW.

Man Said to Be Wanted in Emporia, Kansas, on Forgery Charge Arrested on a Train Leaving This City Yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Larabee did some very quick work yesterday afternoon in landing a man who is said to be wanted in Emporia, Kan., for forgery and in fact arrived just in the nick of time to nab him and stop what might have turned out to be a long chase.

Sheriff Gilbert received a telegram from Emporia officers asking him to apprehend one W. N. Swint, whom they appeared to want very badly. He was supposed to have left Emporia Monday and to have gone to a small station called Breed, 10 miles north of here. Deputy Larabee was detailed on the case and drove with all speed to Breed, only to find that his man had never gone there.

Then the officer decided that Swint had simply dropped off in Colorado Springs at noon and was probably even then waiting for a train out. He sent his rig back and came himself on a train. He had figured that the man would attempt to get out on the Cripple Creek train and he had just a few moments when he got here to make the search, as the train was about to pull out. He spied his man sitting in the window of one of the coaches just as he approached the train and placed him under arrest.

Swint at first denied that he was the right man, but later he admitted that he guessed they had caught him. He would not tell any of the details of his alleged crime and all the officers here know so far is that he is wanted on a charge of forgery. He is about 26 years old, weight 165 pounds and has a red complexion. He is a very neatly dressed fellow and appears to have been in good circumstances.

BUSINESS EXPANSION

The growth of Colorado Springs continues along the lines that make our business houses bigger and better. The latest instance of expansion is the addition of a department for art materials to the popular art galleries of F. M. White & Co., Pike's Peak avenue. This department will cover everything along this line, and the new departure is most notable by reason of the fact that this is the first department of the kind in Colorado Springs. Hitherto, when anyone desired anything in the line of art materials, the purchasers had to send east or to Denver, but through the enterprise of F. M. White & Co. this can now be avoided.

STRIKE IN NIL DESPERANDUM

Ore From a 12-Foot Shaft Returns Better Than $100 to the Ton--Steady Development Continues on the Christmas Though Much Good Ore Is in Sight.

Special to the Gazette

Cripple Creek, Sept. 23—A good surface strike has been made on the Gould Consolidated company's Nil Desperandum claim on Raven hill The lessees on this ground are Barbee & Sidell They commenced work a short time ago and sunk a new shaft. In this shaft at a depth of 12 feet from surface a good body of ore has been cut, that assays better than $100 in gold to the ton The ore body is about one foot in width The find was made in the wash but the lessees expect that when it is found in place the ore will be bigger if not richer John Barbee, one of the lessees, is well known all over the camp, having leased on the Columbia and other properties.

Lessee Wilkinson, operating on the Christmas on Bull hill is not making any effort at production at the present time, but is confining all his attention to development work Although there is plenty of ore in sight left by the former lessees Pottle & Vaine the lessee states that his lease runs for a term of two years, and that he has plenty of time to take out this ore At present he is drifting east on two veins at a depth of 240 feet and confidently expects to open up a new ore body

On the Crescent claim on Womack hill Lessees Stewart and Cozad are shipping good ore from a shallow depth They have just received returns from a small shipment that went out in two grades The first grade of ore was settled for on a basis of a little better than $40 in gold to the ton The second grade was settled for at six ounces in gold to the ton The ore was taken from the wash during the process of trenching for the lead This is the ore body that was opened up by some small boys who were playing at mining during the summer vacation The Crescent is owned by the Stratton estate

Frank Mulvaney and Jesse Hall have a fine showing on the Damon At the present time the lessees are breaking ore from an ore body about nine feet in width that averages better than one ounce in gold to the ton Damon ground in the past has proven rich ground But if the ore in sight holds out for a month the lessee will have made a good-sized stake

The Amanda on Raven hill is proving to be a proposition not unlike the War Eagle adjoining Lessee George Wrockloff has now taken out about 40 tons of ore at surface from the Amanda and will soon start a good sized shipment

Babbitt Brothers leasing on the Jennie Sample are now shipping about 2 tons of ore each week that averages between three ounces and five ounces in gold to the ton

Lessees operating on the Hoosier on Tenderfoot hill will tomorrow send to market a shipment comprising [illegible] tons of good grade ore

There are many applications for a lease on the Friday of the White City company on Tenderfoot hill It is probable that a new lease will be granted this week Lessee Cody on this property has a fair showing and is sending out regular shipments

MANY BUYING ORDERS ARE SENT FROM CRIPPLE CREEK

One of the features of the recent rally in the local stock market has been the number of orders sent in to brokers here from Cripple Creek While the business men of the district generally have been in the habit of having their local stock the bulk of the orders are coming from those more intimately connected with the mining industry Much of this trading is coming from men who hold and operate leases on the various properties Their buying is invariably in stocks of companies upon which ground they are operating They go largely upon the physical condition of the mines in their buying and selling Cases are known in which lessees have purchased stock in the companies on whose property they have taken leases They endeavor then to find ore as quickly as possible and have the funds given all the publicity in the hope that the stock will be pushed up by the favorable reports In the majority of cases this has proven to be true At the present time several brokerage firms in this city are engaged in buying heavily for Cripple Creek customers

GOLDEN CYCLE WILL PAY REGULAR MONTHLY DIVIDEND

The regular monthly dividend of three quarters of a cent per share will be declared payable September 25 by the Golden Cycle company The total distribution to the stockholders will be the same as heretofore $11,250 The company reports no new developments but they are maintaining the steady production of about 200 tons per day This ore is coming from four levels of the mine operations being carried on through the main shaft

NEW ORE BODY OPENED IN EL PASO PROPERTY

A new ore body has been opened up in the 600-foot level of the El Paso property near the center of the section of the mine crossed by the C K & N vein In timbering a stope at this point the vein was uncovered The ore obtained is of a good sylvanite character and while the values have not yet been determined they are expected to run high The size of the new find has not yet been determined as dressing work has prevented development of the new body up to this time The ore is found in what is supposed to be a split vein coming into the property from the south It is supposed to be in from the old workings although it may prove to be an offshoot from the C K and N vein

UNITED STATES REDUCTION

First Meeting of the Big Colorado Corporation for Reduction of Gold Ores Takes Place in New York Today---Interesting Statement to Be Made.

The first annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Reduction and Refining company will be held in New York today Messrs Tutt Penrose and MacNeill of this city who conduct the affairs of the company will be present and will be absent in the east for some weeks At the meeting the following statement will be made to the stockholders

Colorado Springs Colo, Aug 1, 1902

To the stockholders of the United States Reduction and Refining company

The business of your company began on August 1 1901 This report the annual summary of the first year's operations is respectfully submitted for your consideration

Plants Owned

Reduction works—Standard plant Colorado plant Colorado City Colo Union plant Metallic plant National plant Florence, Colo

Sampling works—National sampler, Goldfield Cripple Creek district Colo

Smelting works—The United States Smelting company Canon City Colo

The acquisition of the plants of the Standard Milling and Smelting company the Colorado-Philadelphia Reduction company at Colorado City the Union Gold Extraction company the Metallic Extraction company and the National Gold Extraction company of Florence Colo, by your company, August 1, 1901 resulted in keeping in full operation such plants as were necessary to accommodate all business offered, thereby greatly reducing the cost per ton for reduction and refining of ore

The financial showing is substantial evidence of the great economies effected by the reduction in great quantities of ore under one management This condition permits your company to receive large quantities of ore, which, prior to the formation of your company, could not be treated profitably

The plant of the United States Smelting company, located at Canon City, Colo was acquired early in the year 1902 and results have fully equaled expectations

The supply of ore is obtained from Colorado and the southern and western states.

Business Outlook.

Ore contracts of long duration have been entered into, which, together with improvements in various processes used, and the splendid physical condition of your plants, fully maintained to a perfect standard, justifies the management in predicting a continuation of the first years prosperous condition

A Letter To Mothers.

"I am the mother of five children," writes Mrs. S. E. Rose, of Big Otter, West Va., "and have been as high as eight days in the doctor's hands, and never less than two days with any child until the last. Then I had used two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and was only two hours in the hands of the doctor."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a woman's medicine. It cures diseases of the womanly organs. It is a wonderful medicine for mothers, making the baby's advent practically painless and giving abundant strength to nurse and nourish the child.

EASTERN MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Report of Ladenburg Thalmann & Co., to William A Otis & Co.

New York, Sept 23.—Opening was better than yesterday but today's market was one of liquidation all through. The situation hinged entirely upon the money rate and the market was influenced by that consideration alone. Call money rose to 18 per cent and 8 was the lowest, the bulk of the business being done at probably around 15 per cent. This money was also strong 4 per cent being demanded and got collateral required. Some funds will be received this week through gold imports but they will not be in sufficient quantity to be felt. The liquidation of yesterday and today will have far more influence on the money situation. On the other hand the decline have weakened margins and thus work against the speculative situation. London sold about 20 000 shares on balance and public cable advices indicate no apprehension on the other side be h in England and on the continent regarding the financial situation here. Turbulence has increased in the anthracite district. The foreign exchange market was notably strong in the face of higher money rate. Demand sterling, $4 87¾.

L S Bache & Co—Market opened irregular and feverish. There was considerable selling pressure all along the line. This was brought about no doubt by heavy selling of the pools and cliques and enforced liquidation. The dominating influence was high money rates and the calling of loans by the banks. The monetary situation can only find relief by heavy liquidation. This was strongly in evidence today. How long it will continue it is impossible to say. It is however, the only solution of the problem which will enable banks to strengthen their reserves. The general market suffered severely and the pool stocks could not withstand the heavy pressure put upon them and yielded. There was the best kind of selling in Southern Pacific and it was not a matter of choice but compulsion for the pool carrying the bag felt that stock to let it go as the market would take it. We believe the market will work to a lower level more especially in such high priced stocks as N Y C which will reach price commensurate with the dividends they pay. The situation while not alarming justifies us in recommending that our customers trim their sails and reduce commitments on the long side.

Sharp & Breen—The money situation was the predominating influence on the market today rates on call averaging 15 per cent caused a steady stream of liquidation sales from the opening to the close principally by pools and scattered holders many stop orders adding to the offerings. There was no conspicuous support anywhere but stocks in many instances were well bought notably St Paul, and though a house identified with the Gould interests were heavy sellers in the early dealings causing a depression in all those stocks they were buyers at the close. There are no indications that the rate for money tomorrow morning will be below those of today. The situation should improve towards the end of the week and the bank statement be favorable. Rioting in the coal regions continues and the strike situation remains unchanged. General crop and trade traffic reports continue extremely favorable. The close was active and weak near the lowest prices of the day.

Zimmerman & Forshay—The market today for the first time since the recent bull campaign was inaugurated developed great weakness and average of losses was 3 per cent. There was heavy pool liquidation. On the first recession the public were buyers and continued in this position until later in the afternoon when stops were caught. On the whole buying by commission houses was of greater volume than sales. There will probably be considerable stock pressed for sale in the opening market tomorrow. Market was very active. Close was weak on selling for sal accounts. London sold over 200 000 shares on balance.

CHICAGO GRAIN & PROVISIONS.

Report of Logan & Bryan to William A Otis & Co.

Chicago Sept 23.—Wheat—Liverpool unchanged to ⅛ higher. Paris ½ higher. Antwerp unchanged. Primary receipts 1 320 000 against 1 840 000 last year. Shipments 9 000 000 against 3 400 000. Chicago 250 000. The cables were disappointing after the strength here yesterday but there was a further rush to cover by the September shorts and this made the whole market strong early. Later it sold off on weakness in the September and the prospect of better weather in the west and northwest tomorrow. There is good buying of December wheat and the drift of sentiment is bullish. The manipulation of September unsettles confidence somewhat and prevents a good deal of speculative buying. The trade is afraid of any weakness that may follow the break in the September option. Cash markets are steady at about yesterday's prices. We are inclined to think a better feeling is developing in wheat and that the whole market will do better after the September is out of the way if not before. Estimated cars 150.

Corn—Liverpool is ½ to 1d higher. Primary receipts 420 000 against 534 000, shipments 900 000 against 259 000. Chicago receipts 12 000. The corn market has been held in check we think by the abnormal condition in the September option. The buying of corn is good and largely for local speculative accounts. The selling is scattered and principally for the outside accounts. The short interest is large. We think the buying is much better than the selling. The Iowa weekly state report is quite bullish and tendency of report on crops generally are in that direction. The crop in our judgment will be a disappointment. The cash situation is obscured at the moment by September manipulation. Further heavy general rains throughout the west and southwest will tend to check the early movement of new corn. Estimated cars 257.

Oats—Market was very quiet. There was some demand for September from belated shorts but the rest of the market was not much better than steady. The Iowa crop report estimates that half the crops in that state are unfit for use.

Provisions—Market is very steady and there was little change. The congested condition of the September and October stuff keeps general speculative trade to a small point. Receipts of hogs, 38,000 against 65 000 last year. Shipments of meats 3,404,000 against 3 240,000 last year, lard 1 610,000 against 3 290 000 last year, pork 910 against 1,240 last year.

COTTON MARKET

Report of McIntyre & Marshall, to William A. Otis & Co.

New York Sept 23. Cotton—The cotton market was very irregular today but all things considered it acted very well. There was an advance of 8 to 10 points early on further large buying by commission houses and bulling by the leading market interests. But there was a break later on realizing of profits by some of the old bulls and a general selling movement in which some of the pool brokers were used so as to make it appear that a large liquidating. In this the market lost all its early advance and closed near lowest of the day but with a steady undertone. The sharp break in the stock market may have some adverse sentimental influence on the cotton market once daily as there is no cotton here to the up funds and the bull pools interested in futures in options. It might however lead to the increase of larger offerings of spot cotton from the south. In any event we do not look for very much set back to prices. The cotton situation is such that higher prices will ultimately prevail.

COPPER LETTER

Reported by Paine, Webber & Co., to Wm A. Otis & Co.

Boston Mass Sept 23.—It was a question of money to lay and oil stocks suffered. The coppers with the rest taking everything into consideration the coppers were among the strongest stocks on the list. If prices run off sharply in the morning we believe good stocks especially coppers should be bought.

Metal Market

By Associated Press

New York Sept 23.—Copper ruled inactive in the local market and while price changes were diminutive the undertone opened rather weak. Lake was quoted at $11 60@11 75 closing at $11 37½@11 50. Electrolytic $11 75@11 80 and staples at $10 60 bid. The same metal in London advanced 8s 9d losing at £75 15s for spot and £76 17s for futures. Tin was weak and lower here closing at $28 [illegible] for spot. London was quite at £115 for spot and £116 17s 6d for futures. Lead was steady but quiet [illegible] at 4¼ but declined 1s 3d in London where the closing figure was £19 17s 6d. Spelter was steady here at $5 40 compared with a decline in London of 2s 6d to £19. Iron in the English markets was steady with Glasgow at 55s 2d and Middlesbro at 53s 7½d. Locally iron was quiet and unchanged.

Coffee Market

Chicago Sept 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 8,500. Steady. Good to prime steers $7 50@8 50, poor to medium $4 00@7 00, stockers and feeders $2 50@4 25, cows $1 50@4 75, heifers $2 50@5 75, canners $1 50@2 60, bulls $2 25@5 10, calves $3 50@7 50, Texas fed steers, $4@4 50, western steers $3 75@6 00.

Hogs—Receipts 11,000. Ten to 15 cents higher. Mixed and butchers $7 35@7 95, good to choice heavy $7 55@8 00, rough heavy, $7 20@7 50, light, $7 40@7 85, bulk of sales, $7 40@7 60.

Sheep—Receipts 23,000. Firm. Good to choice wethers, $3 60@4 00, fair to choice mixed $2 50@3 50, western sheep $3 75@4 75, native lambs $3 50@5 60, western lambs, $4 00@5 30.

Denver Live Stock.

Union Stock Yards Denver, Colo, Sept 23.—Cattle—There were approximately 1,200 fresh cattle on the market today and receipts at the river were again heavy. The market here was steady to slow on all kinds. Choice fleshy cattle are fully steady if not firm but there are very few of that class of cattle coming. The arrivals from the west have been very much of a disappointment this season, none of them showing the flesh or weight expected, and it is a difficult matter to get the prices owners seem to expect. There is a constant difference of opinion between buyers and sellers as to the value of the cattle on sale and this makes trade difficult and slow. Heavy receipts at the river also has the effect of giving a downward tendency to the market. There really seems to be nothing in the outlook to warrant the expectation of much better prices than the present at least for some time to come, for there are many cattle to come. There were a few steers on sale this morning of quality good enough to satisfy the butchers and they brought $3 75@4 05, the bulk bringing the latter figure. They weighed close around 1,100 pounds and were of very good quality. There was a liberal supply of cows, but they were all of light weight, some good quality stuff weighing close to 1,050 pounds selling at $3 50 but this was the top and the bulk of sales averaged around $2 80@3 10. The stocker and feeder trade was very slow and practically nothing was done up to noon the trade being too far apart on prices to do any trading. As the eastern markets are in no better shape, it is probable that most of the stuff will sell here, though trade will be late.

Hogs—Hog receipts continue very light and demand strong. Eastern markets were about 10c higher today and this market follows suit. Offerings here were light weight and fair quality and sold at $7 60. Choice heavy packers will bring $7 70 which is about the top. The packers here are short on supplies and hogs are wanted.

Sheep—There were no sheep on the market today and nothing doing. There is a good demand for choice feeder lambs and muttons but they seem to be scarce. Feeder buyers returning from the south report choice lambs very scarce this season and hard to find. The market is steady and there is a fair outlook for trade here later.

SUCCESSFUL COYOTE HUNT HELD YESTERDAY

Joe Kenyon conducted a party of eight upon a successful hunt yesterday. The party left his stables shortly after 8 and directed their course toward the Prescott ranch. Four rabbits and one coyote were started up and the party succeeded in capturing them. The coyote was shot. A second one was sighted but no attempt was made to chase him. The party returned to the city about noon. The next hunt will be held Sunday morning.

COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL HAD MORE HARD PRACTICE

The College and High school football teams lined up against each other yesterday afternoon and some hard practice resulted. The High school boys hit the line hard but made few gains, the total for the period proving disappointing. The college backs went through the High school line at will. On the part of the college Morgan and Shaw showed up the strongest. Kitchen was not in the game owing to a slight injury received during the practice on Saturday. Perhaps took his place at fullback. Fennox and Nye with the High school backs the tackling and the backing of Coombs being particularly good. Billy Johnston and Orin Randolph of last year's high school team, who it was expected would play with the college team, were not out yesterday but are expected today. The training table starts this morning.

Coach Reese was out with the scrub backfield for the first time last night trying to get it into shape on the men and the material by which they worked. Reese is well liked by all the High school boys and he will probably be able to add them a great deal in winning the championship of the state.

DAN PATCH

EQUALED WORLD'S RECORD YESTERDAY AT READVILLE

Black Face Made the Mile in 1 59¼, Equaling Time of Star Pointer Made Five Years Ago

By Associated Press

Readville, Mass., Sept. [illegible]—Dan Patch, the famous racer, this afternoon went against the world's record of 1:59¼, made by Star Pointer on the Readville track five years ago, and in a magnificent performance equaled the record, depending upon memories of some of the horsemen who saw Star Pointer's performance, that the conditions today were identical and that the track was near perfect as it did could.

The track was brought out for a mile with a flying start. Without an effort it went the first half in 1:00. Half an hour later the black came out for his final trial. As in the other trial, he went out wheel to wheel with Lou Dillon, the two horses scoring and Myron McHenry driving the first time down for the last 100 watches caught the speed of the horses and their wings seemed to skip for the mile, his legs moving with perfect regularity. It was not until the last quarter that every one felt confident that the record was in danger. In the stretch came the pacer, with the runner and Bashing Boy, who is worthy mate for Star Pointer, being 1 length behind. Driver McHenry was wildly cheered and the horse was rushed to the stable to be clothed and led away.

ASKS AGGAR EVERY DAY

Statesmen, Journalists, Government Officials and Educators Asserting Their Intention of Being at the Irrigation Congress.

Preparations are going forward best for the entertainment of the National Irrigation congress.

Each day's mail is larger than on the day preceding. Letters are being received from all over the country and each correspondent speaks of his interest in the work of the congress. The press of the country is also giving the congress a great deal of attention. The following from the pen of William E. Curtis and published in the Chicago Record Herald of September 18, contains much of value upon the subject:

The tenth National Irrigation congress composed of delegates from the cities, counties, boards of trade, commercial, agricultural, livestock, engineering and other organizations in the arid states, is to meet at Colorado Springs from October 6 to 9. The meeting this year will be of unusual importance and interest because of the passage by congress and which is now providing that which the congress was originally organized to secure. The congress, the nation's new law, gives the arid states directly over $60,000,000 acres of land in 18 states west of the Mississippi river. It provides for the expenditure of $20,000,000 in construction during the next five years within the next two years, and for appropriation of the remainder. It will be seen from the amount of the appropriation that everybody in the arid regions is deeply interested in its application and practical development and the expenditure of the money must be watched with the most jealous care by the people who must bear the responsibility of its expenditure.

The return from the vast arid regions of the country, and the cities that will in small irrigated farms will make an business different. In the prosperity and the prosperity of the great cities population of the east coast of the Mississippi river and will make possible in the future, or rather the part in practice of the great plan and the state of the Rocky mountains will a population more dense than are turning out in the world. In spite of a drought, the congress will have a drought. The congress will legislation by the national government and for the welfare of the west and the whole country there must be and should be wise, sound and practical such as every patriotic citizen may approve. It is hoped that congressmen entitled to representation will put their best men to the congress, men who appreciate the importance and importance of the movement in which they are engaged.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer contains three columns of matter upon the subject of irrigation and the coming congress, the article being the [illegible] "Better Than Alaska Gold." This article contains an interview with Mr. H. Maxwell in which he speaks most enthusiastically of irrigation. Mr. Maxwell said: "We must never lose the fertilizing public sentiment. The people in the west who form one-fourth of the population know the value of irrigation. The people of the east who form two-thirds of the population have the all-powerful say in matters of legislation. They are ignorant of the necessity of irrigation and must be educated. Therefore we must keep at it. The reclamation of the arid lands of the west will do more for South in the way of trade and the development of commerce than all the gold that has come out of Alaska."

The officers of the congress are going to E. M. Palmer court stenographer of Teller county to act as the official stenographer at the session. Mr. Palmer will be here throughout the meetings of the congress. Otto Lueb, the treasurer of the Arid Land Irrigation association, writes that he is almost certain of President Hadley of Yale being here. To-day the letters to John M. McCullough yesterday requested Dr. Stimson of Colorado college to send a special invitation to Yale's young president. Dr. Stimson promptly complied, writing in part to President Hadley: "Colonel Edgar T. Ensign of this city, who was for some time state commissioner of forestry, will address the congress on the subject of Military Protection of Public Forests." In connection with this subject the following letter from Professor Hayden, director of the Colorado University, will be of interest:

New York, Sept. 19, 1902.

Colorado Mining Exchange, Colorado Springs, Colo.:

Dear Sir: I have received the announcement of the Tenth National Irrigation congress and beg to inform you that special attention is given at the meeting to two subjects which I feel to be of vital importance. First, forest preservation and the forest reservation and second, forest fires.

The prevalence of the latter in the past few years is alarming and I hope that the congress will strongly resolve in favor of a better system of patrol for the reserves already established and recommend the extension of the system.

In my opinion nothing has been of greater service to the west in the past 12 years (or indeed, the limit of time may not be greatly extended) than the new national policy of forest preservation. I need not enlarge upon the close relationship to the irrigation problem. Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Elwood Mead could give an able discussion on either of these subjects. Very truly yours,

R. U. Johnson,
Associate Editor The Century Magazine.

Mayor M. H. Wright of Pueblo writes that he will at once appoint delegates and will forward the congress in every possible way. Milton Whitney, chief of the bureau of soils in the department of agriculture, writes: "Our interest in the development of western lands is indicated by great attention we have given the matter of irrigation in the arid regions. I hope to be able to attend the congress." George A. Burrows, president of the Michigan Brass company, president of eastern manufacturers, who will address Robert W. Hoyt, who was recently nominated for congress in the Pueblo district, writes: "Your kind favor inviting me to attend the irrigation congress received. It will give me very great pleasure to accept if possible. I will attend and will do all in my power to assist in the great work of the congress in conferring on Pueblo." Hon. John of San Francisco, who is a member of the national house of representatives, writes: "I am very much interested in what is the congress. He says he will advise [illegible] all that he can in his power in the interest of irrigation."

E. S. G. [illegible] well known Pueblo irrigation engineer, writes: "Hon. NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Arapahoe Socialist Referendum Vote--County Attorney Bottom Says Valuation Is Too Low.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, Sept. 23.—The Socialist party has, after a count of the referendum vote, announced the following candidates for this county: For state senators, W. D. Haywood, Mila Tupper Maynard, R. Groge of Arapahoe county, and E. Anderson, the float in the Twelfth district. For representatives, A. Wilson, F. P. Wood, A. L. Palmer, Eugene Gage, E. L. Root, F. Smith, Martha J. Southworth, Alice M. Burnett, M. Larkin, W. D. Joy and J. W. Martin.

County Attorney John T. Bottom appeared before the state board of equalization today in an effort to get the board to change its pro rata of the valuation of the railroads as regards Arapahoe county and others. He claims that the valuation as given Arapahoe county is far too small. As an instance he states that the board credited the Union Pacific railroad with having 70.28 miles of track in Arapahoe county, when according to the survey of the county surveyors, the road has 86.67 miles. The board credited the D. & R. G. railway with having 15.8 miles and the county surveyor claims that it has 67.42 miles. Mr. Bottom, in his plea, assumes that the Rush bill would become a law, and if it does, according to the present pro rata, the city and county of Denver would only receive a very small proportion of what is now credited to the county of Arapahoe. As for instance, the Santa Fe now has 10.85 miles of track, but under the new regime, would have only 2.85. The Burlington, which now has 23.53, would have only one mile of track in the new county. It is for these reasons that Mr. Bottom is attempting to get the board to change its figures. He also claims that a wrong distribution was made of the terminal facilities of the roads. As for instance the D. & R. G. has land, improvements, machinery and supplies in Arapahoe county to the value of over $900,000, and yet the entire valuation for this county as placed by the state board of equalization is only $269,628. Nearly all the other roads show a proportionate figure. His claim is that Arapahoe should receive the taxes from these improvements.

David Herr of Silverton, Colo., was drowned in Mohs lake, five miles from Silverton, yesterday morning while shooting ducks. He was in a boat on the lake when it began to leak and was swamped before help could reach him. Up to noon today his body had not been found.

Judge Palmer of the district court, is experiencing considerable difficulty in securing jurors to try the cases in his court. The old jurymen who hang around the court room for the purpose of getting on the jury are on a strike. They refuse to work for $1.50 a day. The judge naturally has to fill out his venire by summons. Out of 650 persons summoned, only 29 were found, who could not give reasonable excuses why they could not serve.

Walter Ross, a young man 24 years of age, was shot by two of his companions while hunting near Telluride yesterday afternoon. The two companions were Harry Craver and Walter Breckenridge. The three men were hunting deer, and Ross became separated from the other two. It then was the old, old story. The two saw bushes move, and both shot at what they supposed was the game. As it was, it was their companion and he fell dead with one bullet in his neck and the other in the groin. Either would have been fatal.

The skeleton of a woman was found under a stairway at 1530 Lawrence street this afternoon. From all appearances it had lain there probably 15 years. The authorities are working trying to find some clue that may lead to the identity of the body.

A report from Granada, Colo., says: "While driving toward this place last evening, a family drove their team into a deep washout near the Santa Fe tracks, about a mile west of here. The team and wagon turned over and the family was caught in the falling covered wagon. One child was killed, being badly crushed, and his mother was seriously injured."

TRINIDAD

(Special Correspondence.)

Trinidad, Colo., Sept. 21.—The site for the new Harvey hotel, to be erected by the Santa Fe company, has again been changed. On account of legal complications, the use of the park for hotel purposes had to be abandoned. The company last week completed the purchase of the east half of block 12 of Terry's addition, fronting on Arizona avenue, just west of the Santa Fe depot and park and will begin immediately the erection of the new hotel on this site. Twenty-two carloads of material for the hotel have been lying in the Santa Fe yards for several days. The building will be two stories high, of Moorish style of architecture, modern in every particular and very similar to the hotel at Las Vegas, and will cost between $60,000 and $80,000. The present Santa Fe park will remain undisturbed.

The Colorado & Wyoming company has let contracts for the construction of depot buildings at Primero, Weston and Tercio, each to cost about $5,000. Arrangements are about completed for the purchase of a depot site in Trinidad, near the Santa Fe depot. It has been decided to rock ballast the entire road bed and to lay an additional track from Jansen to El Moro. The road, while originally constructed as a coal road is rapidly acquiring a passenger and general freight business much larger than they dared to hope for in the beginning.

A gasoline explosion in the City hand laundry, Friday afternoon, started a fire which resulted in a loss of about $500 to the laundry and $200 to the building. The building, which is owned by J. N. Chapple of Wichita, was fully insured, but there was no insurance on the contents. The operator of the gasoline engine was badly burned and several others had narrow escapes.

Mark T. Cox of New Jersey has purchased a tract of coal land containing 900 acres adjoining he Charles Francis Adams tract on the North fork at $25 per acre.

The recent bank statements show that the total deposits o the two national banks of his city exceed $3,000,000, the largest ever known. The deposits of the savings bank are increasing correspondingly.

The horse of James Lamb of Gray Creek is deep in mourning today. Last Friday afternoon the daughter Martha aged 22, died suddenly of heart disease. The shock of his daughter's death was so great that Mr. Lamb became prostrated with grief and he also died Saturday afternoon. The family has resided at Gray Creek for many years, where Mr. Lamb has been superintendent for the Victor Fuel company.

W. J. Caldwell has been called to California by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his wife, who was there in search of recovering her health.

Joe Alberson, hang-A-Mauser at the Santa Fe depot, has taken his family to Missouri for a visit with relatives.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

County Judge Gibson Assaulted by Louis Goodman Who Is Insane.

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette
With Colorado Securities Company.

Pueblo, Sept. 23.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon, Louis Goodman, 24 years of age, met County Judge L. B. Gibson on the court house steps, and after a few words, struck the judge in the face, knocking him down. Goodman then ran, hatless, down Main street and at the corner of Ninth a colored deputy sheriff named Anderson, caught him and received for his pains a severe blow in the face. Finally Andersen and an Italian deputy, who came along, overpowered the prisoner and took him to the county jail. Judge Gibson was stunned and was bleeding profusely from the mouth. He soon regained consciousness and was taken to his home. He is badly shaken up and has two teeth knocked loose. A few months ago Goodman, who is a talented young Hebrew and a former clerk at the postoffice, was adjudged insane in the county court, over which Judge Gibson presides, but being considered harmless, was allowed his freedom. A conservator was, however, appointed to handle the $300 per annum coming to him from the Royal Highlanders order. On this account Goodman had frequently worried the judge, claiming there was something wrong with the acts of the conservator and demanding unreasonable things of the court. Today he repeated his demands and being refused, attacked the venerable jurist as before stated. Something like a year ago, Judge Gibson was similarly attacked while in his own office in the Central block. The party attacking him is not known, nor the cause of it.

Joseph Garabed, a Turk, is here preaching for the Salvation Army and got up so much interest last night on the streets and in the barracks that matters of strife there engendered had to be straightened out in the police court this morning. One of the so-called disturbers was fined $15.

A 15-year-old boy calling himself Howard Hart, and a new blind baggage arrival from Manitou, is boarding in the city jail on account of having run away from his home at that place. He was arrested as a vag by an African policeman. He says he notified his father, who is a curio dealer, that he was going away to find work.

John Clark was today sentenced to two and three years in the penitentiary on two different charges of burglary, both of which he confessed.

Charles Magg, a cutter in Valle's market, has a cut in his cheek inflicted today, which required 15 stitches. About the same time and at the same place, Charles Marmaduke, a driver for the same firm, discovered a severe cut in his own hand. Both men claim the cuts were accidental and neither will swear out a warrant against the other.

John L. Schwab, an old-time resident of Rosita, Custer county, aged 68 years, died here last evening, and the body has been taken to his old home for interment. Deceased was quite prominent in Masonic and Odd Fellow circles, and one of the wealthiest ranch and cattle men in this part of the state.

The somewhat famous C. F. & I. ball team has just disbanded, owing to the lateness of the season. During the year this team has met but one vanquisher, The Old Homesteads of Denver.

Last night Grand Canon division No. 29 of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, tendered a brilliant reception to C. E. Dewing, the assistant master mechanic of the Rio Grande, who lately resigned. Corona Lodge, the ladies' division, had the function in charge.

William Mulzey found a watch belonging to another man, under a mattress and says he was keeping it for the owner. The district judge gave him 60 days in the county jail for his kindness.

Yesterday Bert Suddeff, a D. & R. G. fireman, was shaking a grate at Parkdale. The grate fell on his arm and the member may have to be amputated.

In order to give John A. Baker time to recover from an operation so that he can attend court, the case brought by his wife for $10,000 alimony was continued for one week by the district court. Baker, who is a well-known Rio Grande conductor, by his attorney, filed an affidavit that he is not worth the $10,000 asked for.

The city council last night again refused to confirm the appointment of the new mayor, H. B. Brown. They passed on first reading an ordinance granting a franchise to the new Pueblo telephone company and then adjourned for two weeks.

Otis Atterbury, a prominent stationer of Union avenue, is at home dangerously ill.

The county clerk issued three marriage licenses to Pueblo couples today.

The board of county commissioners were spending today and will spend tomorrow in the selection of jurors for the November term.

GOLDFIELD

Special to the Gazette.

Goldfield, Sept. 23.—The precinct caucus of the Republicans to nominate a justice of the peace and constable was held last night at Dr. Van Norman's office. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Meskiman. Dr. A. I. Hayes was elected president and Frank Seley secretary. L. E. McGarry received the nomination for the long-term justiceship and A. H. Rodgers for the short term. John W. Berry was nominated for constable.

In the Catholic church here at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Mr. John Miles and Miss Blanche Elliott, two popular young people of Independence, were united in marriage. Only a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony. The happy couple left in the afternoon for Denver, where, after a short period, they will return to the camp to reside.

Cate, the night marshal who was shot and killed by a burglar early Sunday morning, will be held tomorrow, Wednesday, morning at 9 o'clock at Knights of Pythias hall. ARAPAHOE COUNTY POPULISTS TO MAKE COMPLETE TICKET

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Sept. 23.—The Arapahoe county Populist convention was held today and nominated the following ticket: For the state senate, A. R. Gray, Richard Wolf and F. H. Caley. For representatives, Mrs. Ada R. Tebbetts, Mrs. Ella F. Stone, Mrs. A. I. Lucas, Samuel Belford, Dr. Henry Paul, Harvey Garman, F. D. Zavitz, Theodore E. Ranklen, Joseph A. Pate, Mrs. Dr. Gertrude Milton, J. J. Bradley. For county commissioners, John Gabriel, E. C. Redmon. For justice of the peace, Judge Collins. For constable, Thomas Walsh.

Three of the nominees, Samuel Belford, Dr. Henry Paul and Harvey Garman are on the Democratic ticket. Two of them, J. J. Bradley and Frank R. Caley were in the Thirteenth general assembly.

The platform adopted is extremely short, but it is interesting. It is as follows.

"We, the People's Party of Arapahoe county, in convention assembled, hereby reaffirm our allegiance to the Omaha and Sioux City platforms. We regret the inability of the state Democratic convention to appreciate true democracy, and we heartily commend the action of the state convention in nominating a state ticket, and we pledge our untiring efforts to elect the same.

"We believe it to be to the best interests of the people of this county that the advanced principles of economic thought as advocated in our state platform, be carried out, and in order to do so, it is necessary that the People's party should cease to fuse with other parties, but carry out their own principles in their own way by their own people.

"Resolved, That we heartily indorse the record in the United States senate of the Hon. Henry M. Teller, and that the nominees of the People's party for the legislature, if elected, pledge every honorable means to secure his re-election to the United States senate.

"Resolved, That we condemn in unmeasured terms, the unbusinesslike administration of the county commissioners of Arapahoe county and we demand that the proper authorities at once take steps to secure the return to the county treasury of the $40,000, more or less, illegally paid out for printing. And we further especially condemn the weak and vacillating Democratic county convention which failed to condemn, or even mention the wrong-doings of certain county officials, because they were the leaders of the Democracy of this county."

The convention was attended by about 175 of the Populist leaders of the county.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Republican County Central Committee Filled Vacancy--Blacksmith Shot at Mine Superintendent.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Sept. 23.—The meeting of the Republican county central committee, held tonight at the county headquarters in the Welty building, was largely attended. There was much enthusiasm over the outlook for the Republican party this fall in Teller county. Important action was taken in the nomination of J. H. Wilbur, a well-known business man of this city, for the office of county commissioner. Mr. Wilbur will take the place of W. H. Allen upon the county ticket. Mr. Allen was nominated for county commissioner at the county convention held at Victor, but later it was found that he did not reside in the Third commissioner's district. Both men have clean records in Teller county, and either would make a good county commissioner. Mr. Wilbur is a pioneer in the city, and at the present time is conducting a harness store in his block on Second street and Carr avenue.

T. Asselhoffen, a blacksmith, was arrested today charged with assault with intent to kill R. A. Huron, superintendent at the Mint property. It was about noon when Mr. Huron discharged Asselhoffen. Instead of going home the latter hung around the shaft house. Huron asked him to leave the property and words followed between the men. Shortly afterwards Asselhoffen went into the night watchman's room, secured a rifle and, seeing Huron a short distance away, took deliberate aim at the superintendent and fired. The bullet went through Huron's clothes, near his hip. Asselhoffen attempted to fire the second time, but miners, hearing the shot, rushed from the shaft house and disarmed him. Asselhoffen is now in charge of the sheriff.

Two mining deeds were placed on file today with the county clerk as follows: William Scofield to John E. Mallaney, one-third interest in the S. C. S. and Mocha Java lode claims on Mineral hill, $1; James Fox to William A. Otis the Cherokee lode, No. 13,980, $1.

The case of the people vs. William Morris was called in the district court today, but the defendant was discharged and the case nolled upon his paying the cost. Morris was a witness in the Buzanes case, and was charged with attempting to separate himself.

Sheriff Robertson went to Victor this evening and there placed under arrest three men who he thinks know something about the murder of A. P. Cate, the night marshal of Goldfield. The men are in the county jail.

Hi Wilson, a deputy sheriff, while driving from Victor to Independence to make an arrest, was thrown from his buggy and sustained a fracture of his right arm.

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Victor, Sept. 23.—At the meeting of the Cripple Creek District Trades and Labor assembly it is stated that the executive board recommended that inasmuch as a number of merchants of the district declined to handle or were not handling goods bearing the union label, it was advisable to start two general merchandise stores, one in Cripple Creek and one in Victor. According to reports, the executive board found that many stores were handling prison-made goods, notably brooms. The committee recommended that the two stores should handle no goods except those manufactured by union workmen. Failing in this, the board may select a representative merchant in each town and throw the bulk of the patronage of organized labor to such merchants, provided they handle union made goods only.

Articles of incorporation of the La Veta club of Victor, were filed today with the county clerk. The LaVeta club is to be a social organization with P. McKenna, president and treasurer; William Gleason, vice president, and James Burns, secretary. The club is organized for a term of five years.

The funeral of John D. Churchill and James Scott, the miners who met death on Saturday last in the Portland and Independence mines, was held this afternoon at Miners Union hall, under the auspices of Victor Miners union No. 32, and the local lodge of Elks, No. 387. Funeral services were first held over the body of Mr. Churchill at the family home near Portland station. In the hall both caskets were covered with floral tributes, and impressive services were held. The long funeral cortege made up of members of the Victor and other miners unions, Elks and Ladies of the Maccabees, then marched to Sunnyside cemetery where the Elks ritudis were carried out.

At the city hall this evening a Stimson campaign club was organized. The meeting was largely attended and the club starts out under favorable circumstances.

The little daughter of A. T. Bryant, head cook at the Baltimore hotel, found a bottle this morning containing concentrated lye. The little one drank some of the poison, but Dr. Thomas, with the aid of a stomach pump, saved her life.

This afternoon the agent for the Singer Sewing Machine company from Boulder arrived in town, and secured a search warrant to enable him to locate a sewing machine taken from Boulder before it was paid for. The machine was located at the Townview house, the proprietress stating that it had been sent to her in payment of a board bill. No arrests were made.

VALUABLE WITNESS IN ST. LOUIS BOODLE CASE

By Associated Press.

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—Former Councilman Frederick G. Uthoff, who it is said was "buncoed" out of $45,000 or $50,000 which it is alleged he received for his vote on the Central Traction bill by R. M. Snyder of Kansas City, has returned from Colorado to testify at Snyder's trial next Monday, and was in conference with Circuit Attorney Folke this afternoon. It is believed that Uthoff's return is second in importance only to the return of John K. Murrell and that revelations render unnecessary the testimony of Charles Kelly, who is wanted by the state as a witness against certain millionaire bribe givers in the city lighting bill legislation. Circuit Attorney Folke is silent on the result of the conference. Uthoff, who has been in Colorado the past six months attending to mining interests, is a most important witness for the state in the coming trial of R. M. Snyder. Uthoff, it is said, received $50,000 from Snyder for his vote for the Central Traction bill. His name was last on the council list and his vote was the deciding one. It passed the bill which made possible the consolidation of the street car system. Later Snyder, it is said, borrowed $45,000 from Uthoff and went to New York, whence Uthoff followed him. There Snyder induced Uthoff to sign an agreement by which he accepted $5,000 and denied that any offer of bribery had been made.

Uthoff came back to St. Louis with his $5,000 and Snyder remained in New York with his $45,000. His remaining there made it possible for him to be indicted for bribery after the three years limit, owing to a statutory provision extending the statute of limitations in case of non-residence in the state.

Last winter when the bribery cases were first brought under investigation Uthoff went before the grand jury and testified. It was supposed then that he had made startling revelations.

The four prisoners now in the Four Courts, John H. Schnetler, John Helms and Otto Schumacher, under $45,000 bonds each, and William Tamblyn, under $30,000 bonds, made application, late this afternoon to Judge Douglass of the criminal court, for a reduction of their bonds. The judge's decision is expected tomorrow.

MAJOR POWELL THE ETHNOLOGIST DEAD

By Associated Press.

Haven, Me., Sept. 23.—Major J. W. Powell, director of the bureau of ethnology at the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, died at his summer home here today. He had been critically ill for some days.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Scientists in Washington placed Major Powell in the foremost rank of the geologists and anthropologists in the world. He had been identified with the scientific work of the government since the early '60s.

Major Powell's most notable scientific work from the view point of scientists here was his exploration of the Grand Canon of the Colorado in the '60s. His fellow workers say that he was not only the first man who ever went through the Colorado canon but the only one who so far ever has traveled its entire length from Green River station to the mouth of the canon. This exploit, scientists say, was one of the most notable geographical, geological and enthological explorations and surveys in the history of North America. It was partly undertaken in connection with the Smithsonian Institution and partly by means of his own private resources. His work as director of the government geographical surveys in the Rocky Mountain region in the early '70s was largely responsible for his selection for executive responsibilities later in this city. This Rocky Mountain district was one of four surveys of the territories which in 1879 were combined into the present geological survey. He had been director of the American bureau of anthropology since he founded it in 1879 and also was director of the geological survey for more than a decade beginning in 1880.

IS SLIGHTLY MIXED ON COUNTIES OF COLORADO

Morgan Howell of South Wales, appears to have a vague knowledge of the county names in Colorado, judging from a document filed with the county clerk yesterday giving the power of attorney to David Rees of Colorado City and Richard J. Gwillim of Monument. He refers to some mining property which he owns in "Tiluride" county, the reference being to Telluride city. The document came from England and is a curious looking instrument. It gives the power of attorney to Messrs. Rees and Gwillim to handle property belonging to Howell in this state and described as the place known as "the old Sheepranche on the divide near Monument, sometimes called the Gilley farm, as well as the mines referred to, which are located in Marshall basin and "Bridis Vale," in the county aforesaid." The document states that Morgan Howell is of Maesguryn Pencaed, county of Glamorgan.

GUARDIAN SUES TO RECOVER FOR WARD

I. S. Harris, as guardian of Margerita Welling, yesterday filed suit in the county court against Ellen S. Massey and R. R. Cochran for $600 alleged to be due upon a promissory note. The money belonged to the plaintiff's ward and was loaned to the defendants on approval of the judge of the county court. The plaintiff also asks judgment for attorney's fees.

The Star Grocery and Clothing company has filed suit in the county court against John Fahey for $35.42 alleged to be due on a book account.

Lulu West filed suit in the county court against Henry West for divorce on the grounds of non-support. The couple were married at Omaha in March, 1894.

OPENED THE WRONG TRUNK

CHARGED WITH THEFT THE DEFENDANT EXPLAINS HOW A MISTAKE OCCURRED.

Gave a Baggageman His Check and Got Another Man's Trunk And Then the Mistake Happened.

D. Henderson, a carpenter of this city, was tried in Pueblo upon a charge of stealing a trunk belonging to John C. Wolf of that place and containing goods valued at $555. The outcome of the case has not yet been learned.

August 25 last Henderson gave an expressman his baggage check on the union depot baggage room for a trunk which he had there and it is said that by mistake the baggageman gave him Wolf's trunk. It is claimed that Henderson opened the trunk and brought it to this city with him, being arrested here by Deputy Sheriff Shurts of Pueblo. It is understood that Henderson denies any intention of wrongdoing and claims that it was simply a mistake.
